

ETERNAL STONE

Layers. Texture. Travertine.

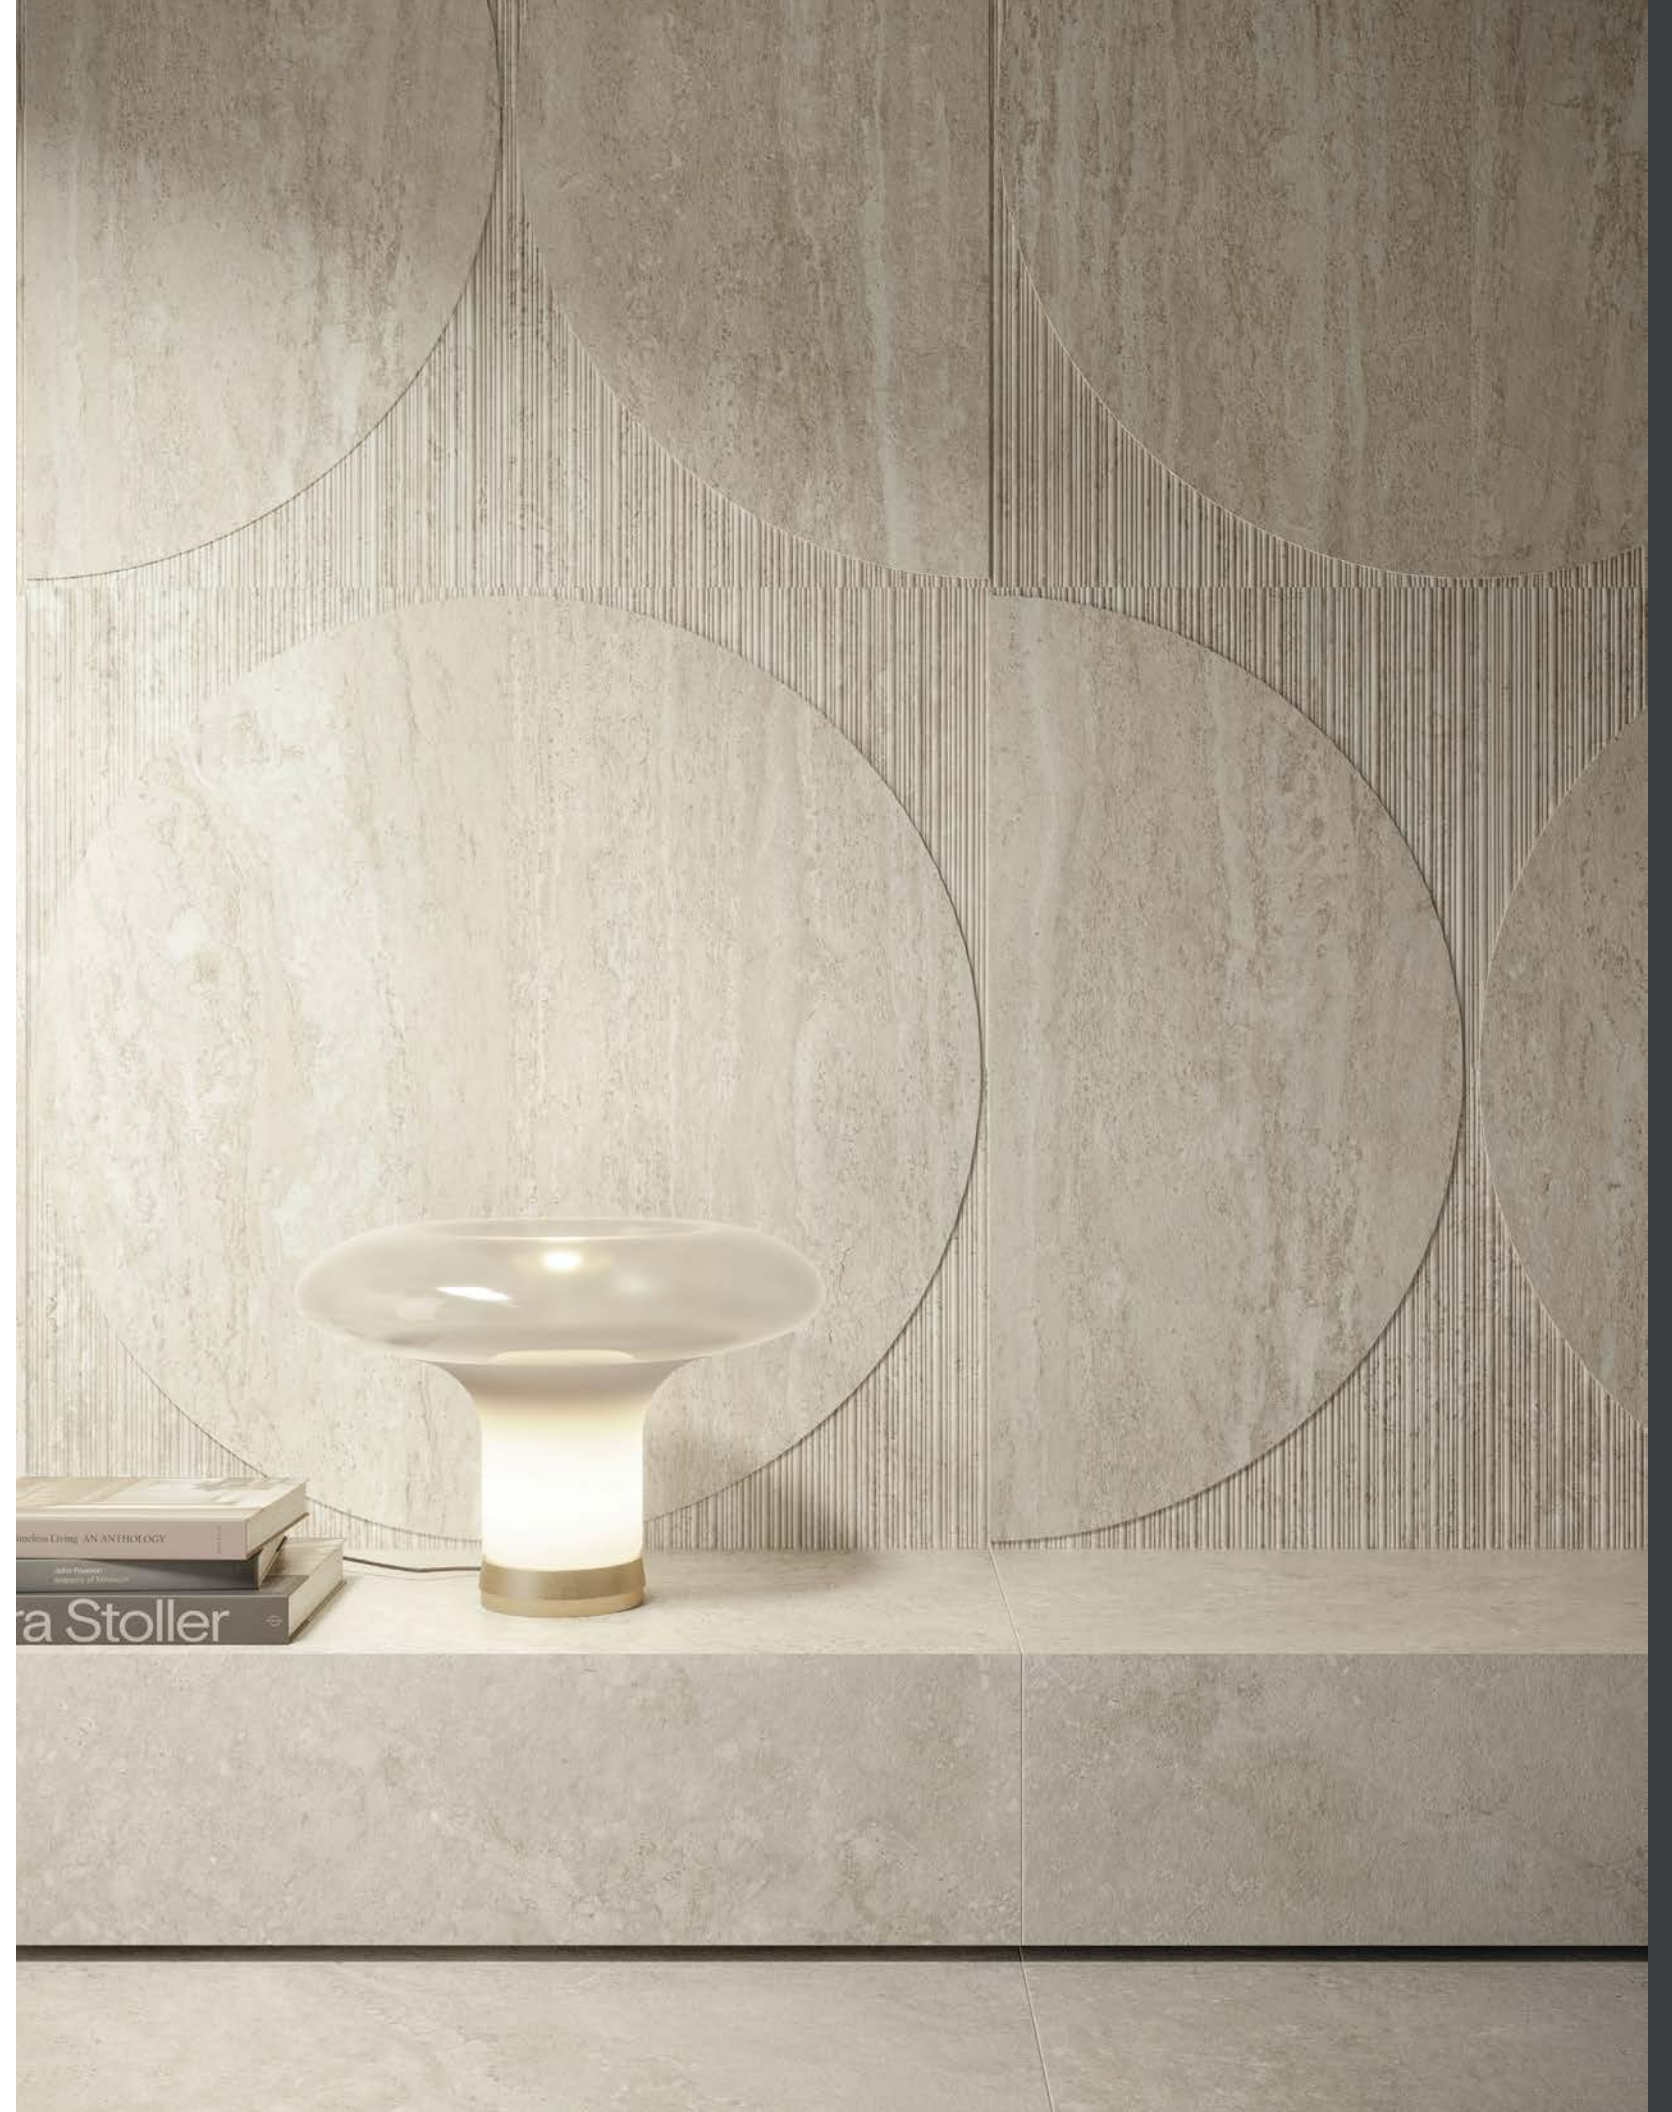

Travertine

Two popular techniques are used when cutting stone: Cross Cut and Vein Cut.

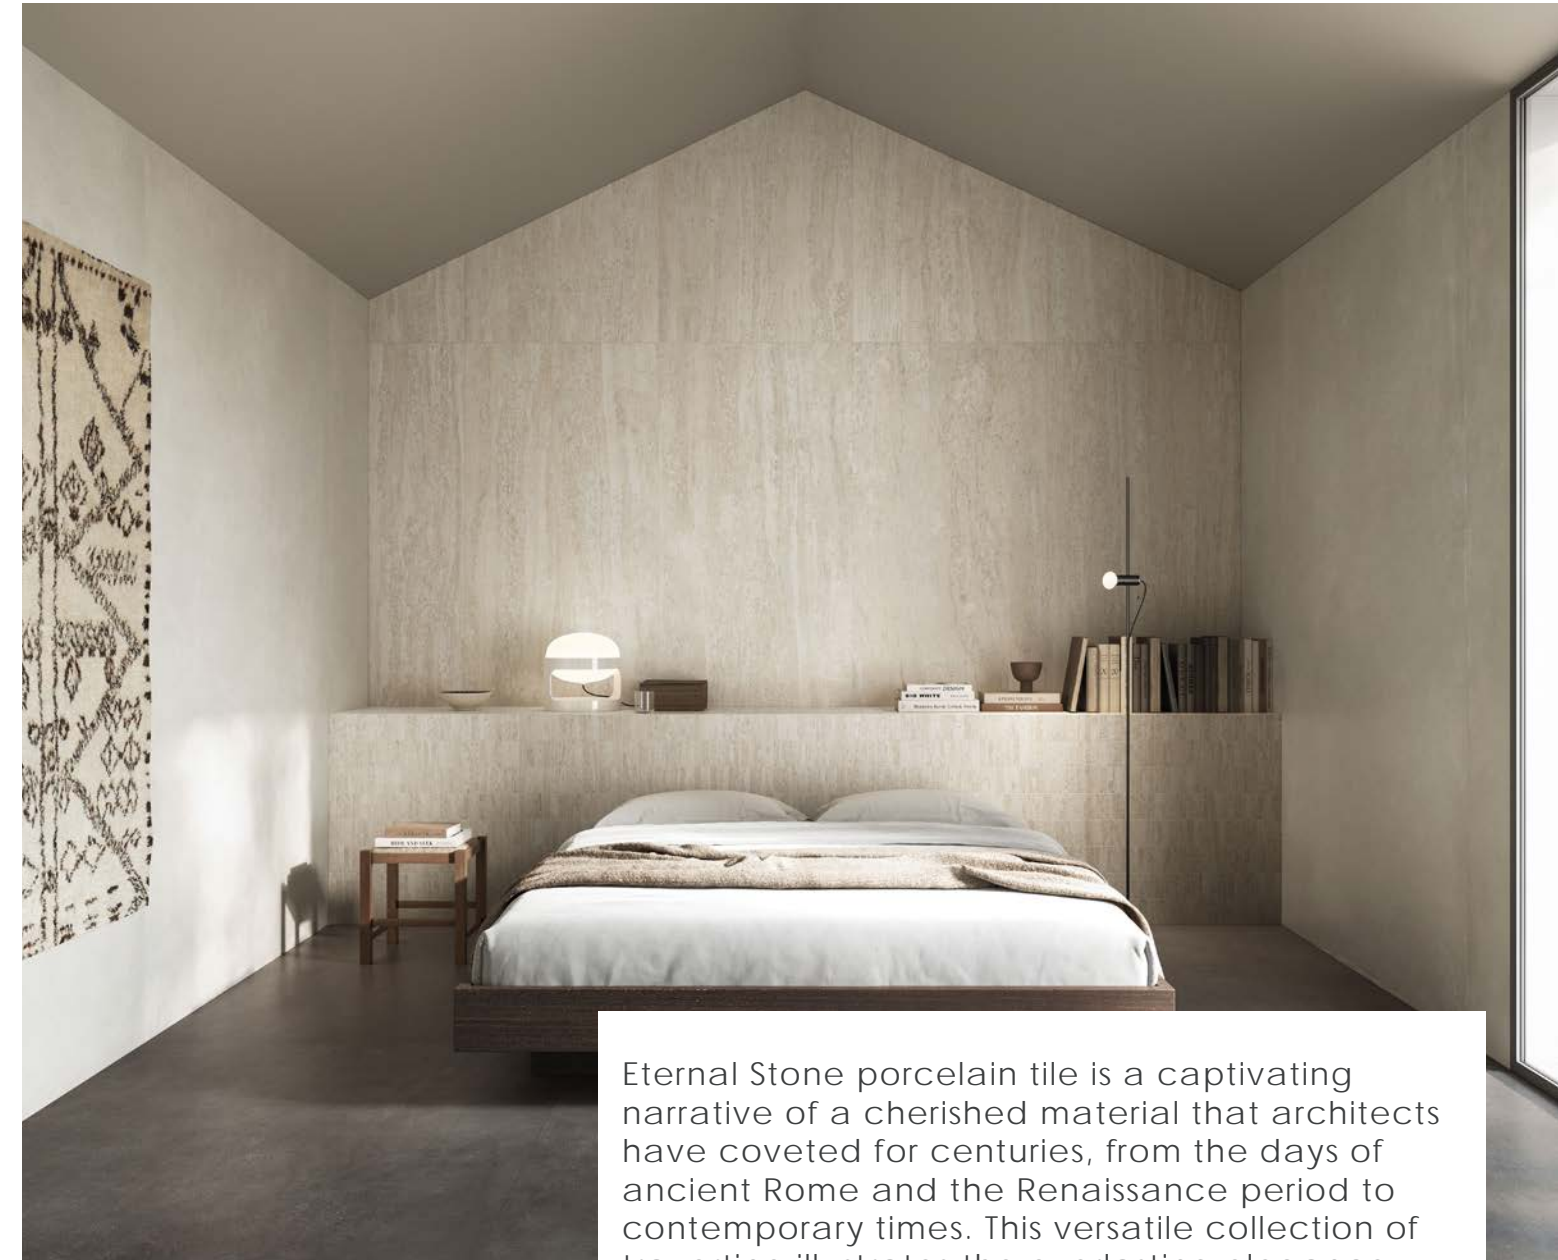

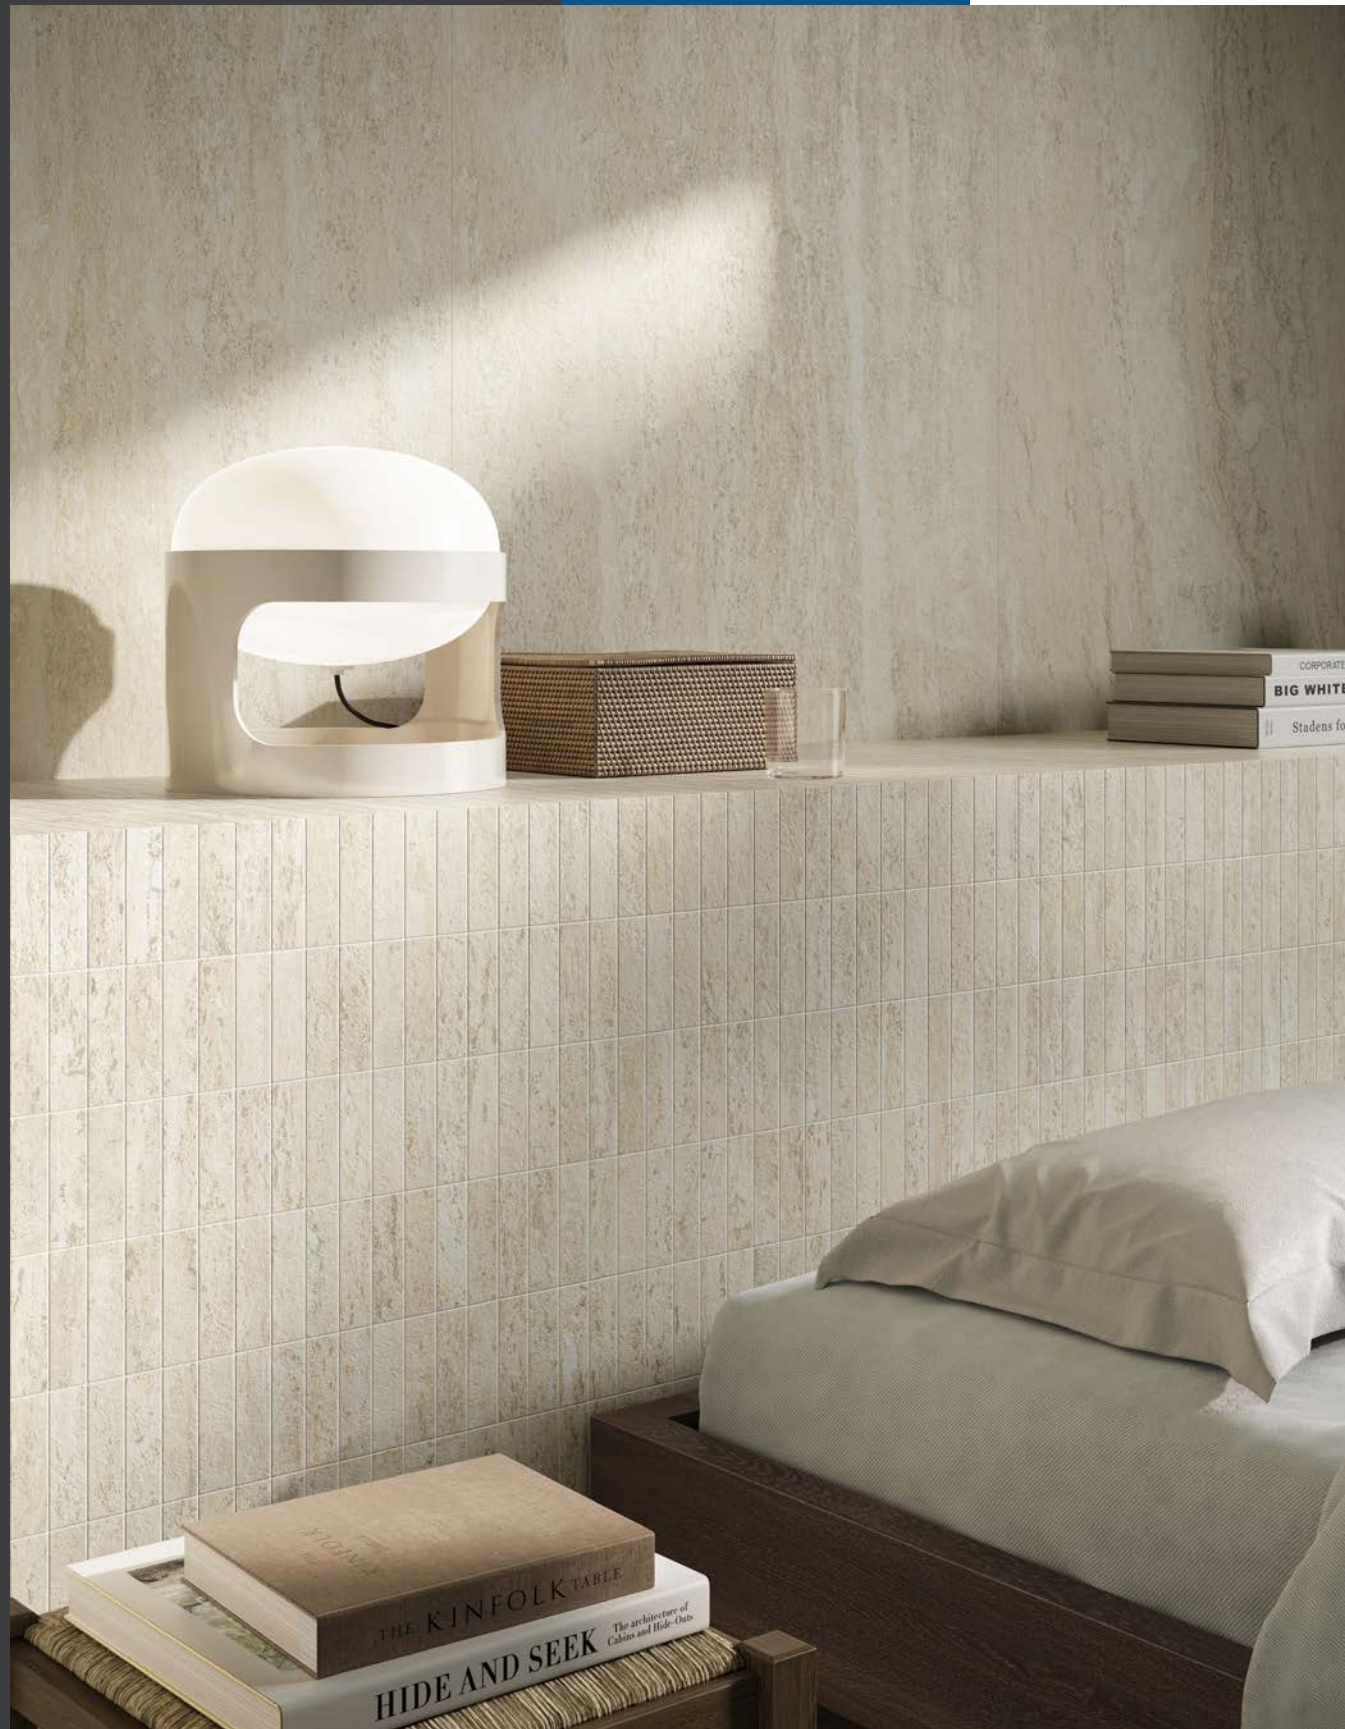

Cross Cut creates a cloudy aesthetic by cutting perpendicular to the direction of layering, which produces a balanced and harmonious look. On the other hand, Vein Cut follows the direction of layering, emphasizing the veins' elongated and sinuous design.

Cross Cut offers a subtle look with a touch of elegance, while Vein Cut is ideal for projects that want to showcase the intricate patterns.

Where we celebrate the timeless allure of travertine, a material revered since ancient times.

Eternal Stone porcelain tile is a captivating narrative of a cherished material that architects have coveted for centuries, from the days of ancient Rome and the Renaissance period to contemporary times. This versatile collection of travertine illustrates the everlasting elegance and charm of the stone, with a diverse assortment of colors that range from cool to warm, exuding a welcoming ambiance.

Decor

Semicircle 3D 48"x48"x9mm Matte | Two Piece Set

White Beige Grey Red

The decoration combines the vein cut tile and the ribbed deco in two complementary modules: the internal half moon is in relief compared to the external portion of the piece, creating a module with a three-dimensional effect that further enhances the geometric motifs.

Staggered 3D 48"x48"x9mm Matte | Three Piece Set

White Beige Grey Red

The decoration combines a listel laid flatly with a listel which longer side is installed overlapping. This creates a module with an original three-dimensional effect. The overlapping is possible thanks to the engraving made on the back of the strip, which generates the 3D effect.
